The news of the invasion was received at Hillsboro Thursday in a message from sheriff W. C. Kendall, of the county, who wired as follows:

"Robert Martin, a rancher repogle a band of 26 heavily armed and mounted men, supposed to be Mexican rebels, west of Monticello, making inquiries among natives as to the amount of storas and supplies at Monticello, Cachillo and Fairview. People of these towns have armed themselves and are irrepared to offer resistance if a raid is attempted. Notify everyone."

Immediately on receipt of the message at Hillsboro, a posse of 50 men was formed. They left for the scene of trouble with a view of engaging the maraufers in battle or driving them from the state.

boughas, Ariz. Nov. 29.—The shooting a Mexican haif breed, giving the ame of Stevens has set the officials both sides of the line by the ears, it is said to reveal a wholesale plot ir a new revolution in favor of J. lores Mason.

Stevens was caught at Agua Prietz

Stevens was caught at Agus Priets by Mexican secret service men and taken into custody with another Mexican, just on the other side of the border. Detectives took the two into the customs guard house and told the guard to arrest both. Both men made a dash for liberty, heading for Douglas. The secret service man fired on them, one bullet striking Stevens in the leg. The detective then ran across the line, while Stevens was taken into custody and held incomunicade in Agua Prieta.

Gen. Oleda called on the United States officers to investigate the shooting. He believed one of the men who was attached to Mexican consul Cuesta here, was responsible. Investigation falls to bear this out. Cuesta's men say Stevens came here recentify from El Paso, At the time of the shooting, they say, Stevens and the other Mexican were discussing the easiest way to take Agua Prieta from the American side.
